March 2020

Just as fast as it got really cold, now there are some warm days mixed with cold days each week. What a crazy weather pattern we have here in the middle of the southern half of the country. Friday, I left work and it was winter outside, and I arrived at work today and BOOM, the Bradford Pear trees are fully white with fresh blooms. Come on warmer weather!

The ADDC Board had a successful Budget and Planning meeting last month in Tulsa. Cutting what is usually a two-day meeting down into a one-day meeting was a challenge. We did have to have a final meeting session after dinner that night in order to wrap everything up, but we got done what was needed. We had to cut short some usual discussion time, which did lead to some business having to be finalized by email after the meeting though. We also were only able to have a short strategic planning session, which limited our ability to really brainstorm together on ideas for enhancing educational opportunities for our members and exploring options for extending our membership into more companies within our industries. We succeeded in cutting our B&P costs which was the goal, we will say it was a success.

I hope everyone has had a chance to review the 2019 financial reports that were sent out last month. We had a net income of $15,000. We are thrilled to have put a little money back into our bank account in 2019, but our excess due to several factors, one being we didn't turn over ADO to Charity Rising until March, saving us $4,000 in management fees for the year, and the fact we paid them about $400/month less than was budgeted because they weren't handling our accounting and finance in 2019. For 2020, we have approved a balanced budget. Our expected expenses will be right in line with our revenues. Since our dues income with the budgeted 1,025 members in 2020 do not completely cover our expenses, we rely on the annual guaranteed annuity income and EAB sales to make up the difference. We don't know exactly how many EABs we will sell in 2020, but we budgeted for selling 1,670 books which will make up the $5,010 we need to balance the budget. We currently have 670 books in inventory and will be ordering more. We have one confirmed order for 1,000 books. We also have a Canadian company that has reached out with an interest in purchasing 2,000 copies of a metric version, which we currently no longer have. We are looking at the cost to add metric equivalents to our current EAB so it can be used for either, hoping this will be a cost-effective way to produce the 2,000 additional copies to fill the order. If we can sell these, we will have a small profit for 2020 if nothing unusual happens. We also can hope that we have a significantly higher than budgeted number of members in 2020, as we did in 2019. The 2020 approved budget and highlights from B&P will soon be available on the ADDC Website.

March is Desk and Derrick Awareness Month! What are you as a member and your club doing to promote D&D this month? Everything we can do to spark interest in ADDC and rekindle the interest in members who are beginning to stray from us are so very important right now. We need to do what we can every day to build up ADDC and carry out our mission.

I've been seeing some nominations for RD for 2021. This is very exciting! Is it your time to step up and serve? Let your club know you are ready, willing, and able to expand your leadership potential by serving as RD in 2021. Already served as RD? There are more rungs on the ladder my friends! ADDC needs YOU to help keep us relevant, interesting, and intellectually inspired. You CAN do it.

All four regional meetings are just weeks away. I am attending the Northeast Region Meeting March 25th-28th; the Southeast Region Meeting April 15th-20th; and the Central Region Meeting April 23rd-25th. Since the West Region Meeting falls during the same week as the Southeast Region Meeting, unfortunately, I will have to miss it. I have not missed my region's meeting since my first region meeting in 1996. I know Christina and the rest of the West Region members will have a fantastic region meeting.

Until next month....

March 2020

Dear Members,

March is Desk and Derrick Awareness Month!! Let's make an extra effort to invite guests and prospective members to our meetings so they can see the many benefits of Desk and Derrick membership. We need to spread the word of Desk and Derrick and keep the Association growing and increase our chances of surviving.

I attended the Budget & Planning Meeting in Tulsa, Oklahoma and it was very educational and informative. The Board is a very hard-working group and is here for you, the member.

Some highlights of the meeting are:

- Reviewed Standing Committees, discussing some of the larger Committees that were combined to have two Chairmen.
- Reviewed Special Committees
- Reports on, upcoming ADDC Conventions, Foundation and Educational Trust, Board Reports, and Proposed Amendments
- Major discussion on the Budget Review and Approval
- Insurance
- Strategic Planning

I am proud to say all the Southeast Region Representative positions are filled. Thanks to all of you who volunteered for these committees.

The Southeast Region Meeting is fast approaching; it is not too late to register for the first Region Meeting on a cruise ship, the Carnival Valor. This will be a memorable experience and educational with the seminar, field trip, and certification class held at the Holiday Inn/Gretna and our business meeting, member recognition being held on the cruise ship.

Thanks to the Nominating Committee's efforts there is a candidate running for 2021 Southeast Region Director; information has been emailed to the Presidents.

Every member should take the time to visit the newly updated ADDC website (www.addc.org). The road was a little bumpy at first and more information is being added to make it easier for members to navigate around the website. Also check out your own club's website and social media pages to ensure they are up-to-date with current information.

Happy St. Patrick's Day to everyone and may good luck be your friend.

Dear Friends,

The current health situation concerning COVID-19 is affecting many of our regularly scheduled events and meetings.

Unfortunately, our March meeting on Wednesday, March 18, 2020, had to be cancelled. We are hoping to be able to hold our meeting next month on April 22, 2020 as scheduled. When we CAN meet again, we will promote Desk and Derrick Awareness and have a great celebration of our Desk and Derrick Club!

We are reaching out to our scheduled March speaker, Arthur J. Price with Badger Oil Corporation, to speak at a future meeting. His presentation in March was to relate to the Oil & Gas industry as well as insurance regarding efforts by our legislators to address tort reform bills in the 2020 legislative session.

Brittney Clark and I did meet with Lafayette Mayor-President Josh Guillory on February 20, 2020 and were presented with a Proclamation declaring March as Desk and Derrick Awareness Month. Thanks to Brittney, our Publicity Chairman, for updating the Proclamation and setting up the meeting and photo op!

Our Desk and Derrick Club Field Trip on Thursday, February 27, 2020 was so great! The 12 attendees enjoyed very interesting and informative tours of the BP Training Facility and Fletcher/BP Integrated Production Technical Building. We will hear a report of the day at our next meeting.

We will most likely postpone the Personal Development Seminar scheduled for April 4, 2020. An update will be provided when received. Shanna Dorion of Biz Knocks was to speak on business etiquette tips, turn-offs, and best practices for career-minded businesswomen.

The Southeast Region Meeting on April 15-20, 2020 hosted by the Westbank Club has been rescheduled for May 29-30, 2020. A revised registration packet is being prepared.

Stay well. Stay positive. Take care of yourself and your family. Be a good friend. Be a good neighbor. Looking forward to being together again soon!

Love you all!

Oil giants set health checks for critical staff and work-from-home rules

Written by: Erwin Seba and Gary McWilliams

Major energy companies in the United States imposed work-from-home rules for office staff and began health checks for remote or critical workers as coronavirus spread and threatened an industry reeling from falling demand and profits.

BP, Exxon Mobil, Kinder Morgan, Motiva Enterprises and Royal Dutch Shell told most office staff to work from home starting Monday. Federal regulators on Friday were pressed by companies to ease work rules for pipeline operators and to limit visits to some sites. Shell and Chevron began health checks of workers and visitors at some key U.S. facilities, spokesmen said.

Offshore rigs, refineries and pipelines require on-site teams and group workers in close quarters, making them vulnerable in a Covid-19 outbreak. They cannot be run remotely and health checks could prevent forced shutdowns that could lead to big losses or local fuel shortages.

The pandemic has infected more than 156,000 people worldwide including some 2,900 people in the United States, killed more than 5,800 globally and slashed fuel demand amid shuttered schools, churches, offices and some retail stores.

There is only one known case of Covid-19 to hit a U.S. refinery. Marathon Petroleum Corp, the nation's largest refiner by capacity, removed some staff at a California plant after an employee became ill. Norwegian oil firm Equinor halted a North Sea development project and removed staff after an offshore worker fell ill.

STORM-LIKE PREPARATIONS

Falling oil demand and a price-war that slashed crude prices by about 50% this year has put the industry in a tailspin. Many oil firms have abruptly cut spending and staff to cope with the downturn.

Work-at-home rules, fewer car and plane trips are expected to reduce U.S. petroleum demand by up to 2.5 million barrels per day (bpd). For the full year, it could cut motor fuel use by roughly 300,000 to 400,000 bpd.

There have been no refining or chemical plant shut-ins caused by coronavirus. Still, companies are drafting plans similar to hurricane measures that keep plants running with minimal staff, said people familiar with operations.

Shell asked salaried staff at its Louisiana refineries to begin shadowing hourly plant operators to prepare managers to run units if necessary, the people said.

Exxon will allow only trained operators into control rooms at its Baytown plant, and they must remain at least six feet apart from one another, they added.

Pipeline regulators discussed work-rules for control room operators and visits by U.S. and state inspectors with trade group executives on Friday, said Suzanne Lemieux, an emergency expert at trade group American Petroleum Institute.

BP and Shell on Friday gave workers work-at-home assignments following similar social-distancing measures at Apple, Facebook, and Microsoft's Silicon Valley offices. The rules affect about 15,000 U.S. Shell workers.

Oil giants set health checks for critical staff and work-from-home rules

Written by: Erwin Seba and Gary McWilliams

March 15, 2020 / 9:28 AM Reuters News

Shell has begun screening staff who travel to its U.S. Gulf of Mexico production rigs “to ensure that we minimize the risks of COVID-19 transmission” to offshore workers, said spokesman Curtis Smith.

The sweeping precautions affect refinery, oil and gas export terminal and gas pipeline operations. Kinder Morgan Inc, one of the largest North American pipeline firms, asked most of its 11,000 employees to work from home beginning Monday. It will reevaluate the situation weekly, said spokeswoman Melissa Ruiz.

Non-essential workers at BP’s U.S. refineries, Exxon’s Baytown, Texas, refinery and Shell’s Convent and Norco, Louisiana, plants also will work from home beginning Monday, according to people familiar with the matter. BP may keep the measures through mid-April, one of the people said. Exxon would not comment on specific actions. It is focused “on ensuring the safety and health of our entire workforce and to do our part to limit the spread,” said spokesman Todd Spitzer. Marathon Petroleum launched “business-continuity plans to accommodate staffing needs in the event of illness-related absenteeism,” spokesman Jamal Kheiry said.

Among measures being weighed at refineries are assigning small crews to keep plants during an outbreak, the people said. Crews would not leave until the crisis passed. Most refineries can operate with about half their normal staff, the people said, but may have to scale back production. Refiners Lyondell Basell Industries and Chevron are considering health checks for employees as they begin their workday, said people familiar with the deliberations. “We are taking precautionary measures to reduce the risk of exposure, including screening workers and visitors,” Chevron spokesman Braden Reddall said. Local offices will set their own rules with health officials, he added.

Memo

To: All ADDC Members
From: ADDC Board of Directors
Date: March 11, 2020
Subject: Region Meeting Attendance – Coronavirus

There has been a lot of communication around travel right now due to the global concerns regarding the current Coronavirus outbreak. There has been a lot of discussion around the Association, especially surrounding the upcoming Southeast Region Meeting, a portion of which is taking place on a Carnival Cruise Line, Western Caribbean Cruise in April. As of now, travelers have been assured by Carnival that they are taking extraordinary measures to ensure passengers the highest level of protection possible. The GACs of the Southeast Region Meeting will be working with the members of the Southeast Region to make sure the Region's necessary business can be transacted, whether or not members choose to cancel their cruise and/or cancel attendance at the land-based pre-cruise activities that are planned prior to the cruise departure. Information will be sent out by Region Meeting GACs or your RDs as it becomes available.

The most important thing is the health and well-being of our members. Most of us feel safe in groups the size of most of our Region Meetings. However, we want our members to know that we respect each other's need to make decisions that we feel are in our best interest, based upon our own personal situations. If you feel that attending your Region Meeting poses a risk to your health for any reason, we encourage you to do what you feel is best for you. Under the circumstances, everyone understands there is nothing more important than your health and that of your loved ones.

Please be aware, however, that lower than budgeted attendance could lead to the Region Meeting suffering a financial loss, which would result in the inability for the Region Meeting Fund to issue a refund for registration fees already received, as requested refunds are issued after the last Region Meeting related expenses are paid and it is determined there are funds available.

Hopefully, there will be a quick resolution to this issue and the number of new cases and reported deaths will soon begin to wane and we won't have to have this concern hanging over us as we start making plans to attend our Convention and Educational Conference in September. Please pray for this outbreak to slow and subside as the medical community works on a vaccine/cure for it.

Finally, please be vigilant in taking your own precautions to stay healthy. Follow the medical community's instructions. Wash your hands thoroughly with soap for 20 seconds regularly; use hand sanitizer; etc. We want you to stay healthy, so we can see each other soon!

The 2020 ADDC Board of Directors

How to Protect Yourself from COVID-19

Know How it Spreads

- There is currently no vaccine to prevent coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19).
- The best way to prevent illness is to avoid being exposed to this virus.
- The virus is thought to spread mainly from person-to-person.
 - Between people who are in close contact with one another (within about 6 feet).
 - Through respiratory droplets produced when an infected person coughs or sneezes.
- These droplets can land in the mouths or noses of people who are nearby or possibly be inhaled into the lungs.

Clean your hands often

- Wash your hands often with soap and water for at least 20 seconds especially after you have been in a public place, or after blowing your nose, coughing, or sneezing.
- If soap and water are not readily available, use a hand sanitizer that contains at least 60% alcohol. Cover all surfaces of your hands and rub them together until they feel dry.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth with unwashed hands.

Avoid close contact

- Avoid close contact with people who are sick
- Put distance between yourself and other people if COVID-19 is spreading in your community. This is especially important for people who are at higher risk of getting very sick.
- Stay home if you are sick, except to get medical care.

- Cover coughs and sneezes
- Wear a facemask if you are sick. If you are not sick, you DO NOT need to wear a facemask unless you are caring for someone who is sick.
- Clean and disinfect frequently touched surfaces daily. This includes tables, doorknobs, light switches, countertops, handles, desk, phones, keyboards, toilets, faucets, and sinks.
